MIRAGE – Oriental dream

European Hospitality Market

The European hospitality market in 2025–2026 is experiencing strong growth, driven by the luxury segment and a significant increase in investments, exceeding €16 billion.

Destinations and Key Strengths:

- Italy: Strong appeal for luxury, art cities (Rome, Venice and Florence), and resort destinations.
- Spain and France: Confirmed among the leading markets for investment and accommodation capacity.
- Greece: Leader in the number of 5-star properties.
- United Kingdom: Primary market in terms of transaction volume.

Hospitality Market Trends

Wellness and Health at the Core of the Hotel Offering

The pandemic has accelerated awareness of the importance of health and well-being, transforming them from additional services into essential components of the hospitality offering.

Focus on:

- Air purification and air quality monitoring
- Antibacterial materials in high-touch areas
- Advanced disinfection, now a standard practice, though less visible

Hospitality Market Trends

The Rise of Sustainability

The hospitality industry is undergoing a profound transformation toward more sustainable practices. Superficial approaches are progressively giving way to structural commitments:

- Environmental certifications becoming the norm rather than the exception
- Carbon footprint transparency for hotel stays

Sustainability as a Competitive Factor

75% of travelers state that sustainability influences their choices. This has a direct impact on investments, partner selection, and property positioning.
